

Annual Report

RELEVANCE | AUTHENTICITY | STEWARDSHIP 2014-2015

A Message from the Board

by Richard C. Tilghman, Jr., 2014-2015 Chair

It's been quite a year for the Museum—welcoming a new President, celebrating our 50th anniversary, enjoying record-breaking attendance, and the addition of several new programs, among other worthy accomplishments.

You'll notice this year's Annual Report covers a ten-month period beginning May 1, 2014 and ending February 28, 2015. Moving forward, our fiscal year will run March 1 through the end of February. We made this change to better align the Museum's fiscal year-end activities with available resources. The changes maximize the focus of annual fund activity to coincide with year-end taxes, which in turn, help improve cash flow in the winter months, offsetting lower admission revenue. The shift in schedule also frees up limited staff resources to be able to work on critical activities in the spring, such as exhibition openings, education programs, and readying the campus for high season.

I'm happy to report the Museum's solid financial footing continues to improve thanks to the leadership of Kristen Greenaway and her team. Our balance sheet is stronger: we have paid down $2.6M of debt over the last six years; we have $22.4M in net assets, compared to $19.7M six years ago; and we've had six years of operating fund surpluses, which we've put to good use for much-needed education programs and campus maintenance.

We are positioned for increased growth in both our boat donation program and our facility and grounds rentals. We've added new on-the-water programs, such as small craft rentals, and have completed major maintenance and capital projects including the rehab of the 1879 Hooper Strait Lighthouse and other historic structures. With new, changing exhibitions such as A Broad Reach: 50 Years of Collecting—which I highly encourage everyone to come see—new education and boatbuilding programs, festivals and signature events, there is always something for folks of all ages to experience.

Don't miss the Mid-Atlantic Small Craft Festival and Maritime Model Expo on October 3 & 4—it's a great opportunity to explore the world of small craft and get out on the water. This year's OysterFest falls on Halloween, October 31 and is always a can't-miss event with live music, retriever demonstrations, boat rides, and of course, oysters!

Thank you for your continued support of the Chesapeake Bay Maritime Museum—whether you're a member, guest, volunteer, sponsor, board member, or someone who shares our love and enthusiasm for the Bay and its people—it's because of you we're able to celebrate the last 50 years and begin reaching forward to the next 50 years. I can't wait to see what lies ahead.

Building Community Educational Partnerships, One Oyster at a Time

By Kate Livie

"Hey, check this thing out! It's totally see-through!" calls one boy across the table, handling a naked goby. Small and fragile in his hand, the fish wriggles as it is proffered up for the rest of the group to see. "Ew!" one student shouts, recoiling a little.

"No, it's cool, you can see its insides," responds another, before the little fish is carefully deposited into a plastic container of water teeming with other oyster reef inhabitants. These six students are clustered around the table, one working group out of a class of 25.

As part of the Exploring and Restoring Chesapeake Oysters program, the students have walked from St. Michaels High School to the Chesapeake Bay Maritime Museum to take final measurements of the oyster cages they've adopted. Each oyster must be individually measured and weighed, and the tiny creatures that live on them—fish, barnacles, mud crabs, grass shrimp—are sorted and tallied.

The students, accompanied by their teacher Lauren Greer, are immersed in their hands-on task. It is messy, wet and muddy, and yet every student is laughing, talking, and pointing things out to each other. To a teacher, this is successful engagement. To the Museum, this is mission fulfillment. And to a student, this is real science—alive and thriving, out of a textbook and into the Chesapeake Bay.

The Chesapeake Bay Maritime Museum recognizes that it takes a village to raise a child, and within our community "village," we are fortunate to have a wide spectrum of non-profit organizations dedicated to providing uniquely enriching learning opportunities for our local children.

Exploring and Restoring Chesapeake Oysters was the product of just such a collaboration between Greer, a member of CBMM's Friends Board, Kate Livie, CBMM's director of education, and Carol McCollough, biologist and educator with Phillips Wharf Environmental Center.

Borne of the simple desire to share a passion for oysters with local students, the program was designed to introduce local environmental science students to the rich ecology, culture, and biology of oysters through in-class activities and hands-on experiences. By working collaboratively, CBMM, Phillips Wharf, and Talbot County Public Schools created an educational experience with greater dimension and relevance than they could have achieved alone—transforming the humble oyster into a powerful tool to explore Chesapeake history, science, and culture.

Our year-long program featured lectures on the role of the oyster in the Chesapeake's fisheries and its place as an environmental keystone species, live oyster dissections, and guidance on correct scientific data collection techniques and methods. At the end of the program, participants would get to apply what they had learned on oyster “nurseries” before heading out on CBMM’s buyboat Winnie Estelle to plant the mature oysters on a sanctuary.

At each step along the way, the three program collaborators from CBMM, Phillips Wharf, and Talbot County Public Schools shared their professional expertise and practical insights. The result was an organic learning experience—informed by best practices and a community-driven sense of place—that was so engaging students didn’t realize they were being taught.

“I really feel the program did a wonderful job of engaging all the types of students I have, from the ones who work on the water with their families to those who have never been out on a boat before,” commented Greer.

“Going out to the Museum was really powerful. Sometimes we can worksheet them to death, and it was an authentic, organic experience where they were learning the entire time but because it was so hands-on, they didn’t really register it as ‘school.’” Greer continued, “I think it really changed student’s perception about what environmental science is—it opened up their eyes to what real science looks like and what kinds of jobs they might get in the future.”

Greer credits the success of the program in large part to CBMM’s presence within the community. “It is great to have such a jewel in our backyard, with so many resources available to local schools.” Community partnerships and local, hands-on learning like that offered in Exploring and Restoring Chesapeake Oysters are a recipe for success that the Chesapeake Bay Maritime Museum is working to repeat.

Following the collaborative model, CBMM is committed to expanding its community partnerships for future programs. This fall as part of a new afterschool initiative for students from Talbot County, CBMM will partner with the Academy Art Museum and the YMCA of the Chesapeake to offer a boatbuilding program for 6th grade students. The free afterschool boatbuilding program, offered several days a week to local students, will share the joy of “messaging about in boats” in a relaxed, fun atmosphere.

Modeled after “Rocking the Boat,” a New York-based non-profit, CBMM’s 6th grade program will help create a welcoming boatyard environment where Talbot County children can set and achieve goals, growing a sense of pride and accomplishment with every plank laid on the keel.

Participants can build relationships over the course of a project with CBMM shipwrights and educators, and learn basic woodworking techniques in a practical fashion free from the faintest whiff of the worksheet-oriented classroom.

Students aboard the Museum’s buyboat Winnie Estelle return the oysters to the Miles River.

For some local 6th graders, it will be learning as a part of a collaborative village—dirty, wet, real, nuanced and wonderful—the way we do it best, here at the Chesapeake Bay Maritime Museum.

Chesapeake Bay Maritime Museum’s HONOR ROLL OF DONORS

We extend our deepest gratitude to our donors for gifts received between May 1, 2014 and February 28, 2015. It is only through the generosity of our friends and supporters that the Museum can fulfill its mission and impact lives by igniting a spark of interest and passion for the Chesapeake Bay and its heritage and culture. Gifts of $101 or more are listed below. Please see our Annual Report online at cbmm.org for donors of $100 or less. Every gift, no matter the size, is greatly appreciated! Thank you!

Volunteers of the Chesapeake Bay Maritime Museum gathered at a June 18, 2015 reception honoring their service and dedication in bringing people closer to the Chesapeake Bay through their volunteer work. Last year, more than 275 volunteers collectively contributed 28,235 hours of service, helping with all aspects of CBMM's operations. Volunteers reaching milestones in hours of service were also recognized at the reception. Volunteer opportunities are available year-round at the Museum, in various roles and capacities. To learn more, email mspielman@cbmm.org.

On June 18, 2015, the Museum recognized a dedicated team of more than 275 volunteers for their combined 28,235 hours of service at the Museum over the last year. Volunteers were recognized by CBMM staff for their work in advancement and membership, boat restoration and maintenance, boat donations, buildings and grounds, education, finance and administration, store, and events and volunteer programming.

Special recognition was given to volunteers with the highest hours of cumulative service, including John "Doc" Hawkinson with 8,000 hours; Mike Sweeney with 7,000 hours; Carol Kilborn, Paul Ray, and Mary Sue Traynelis with 5,000 hours; Lloyd Devigne with 4,000 hours; Nick Green with 3,000 hours; Gloria Freihage, James Heelan, Florence Jackson, John Stumpf, and Ed Thieler with 1,500 hours; and David Bodey, Bob Hinkel, and Gary Nylander with 1,000 hours.

Individuals were also recognized for achieving several milestones of 100 hours and above in their volunteer service at the Museum.

The reception was generously sponsored by Garden & Garnish of Trappe, Md.

"Our volunteers help make this a great Museum," said CBMM President Kristen Greenaway. "Each day, our volunteers make the difference in delivering a great experience, not only for the Museum guest, but also for our staff and among other volunteers.

"We are fortunate to have strong partnerships between volunteers and staff. Through my quarterly meetings with volunteers, we have identified ways for volunteers to also join working groups—which include staff and board members—to help brainstorm our future."

CBMM is always looking for volunteers to help throughout various areas of its operations, including front desk assistants, interpretive educators, festival helpers, buildings and grounds assistants, and more. For more information, contact CBMM Director of Events and Volunteer Program Melissa Spielman at 410-745-4956 or mspielman@cbmm.org.
